

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

I'm writing to draw your attention to two positions (historical and systematic theology) which have now been advertised for our Religion and Theology research program within the IRCI and FTP: PD attached, advert links below. The application deadline is 23:59 AEST on 5 November.

These are full-time, permanent positions in Melbourne. The positions combine teaching and research, but are weighted towards research during the first three years and thus should be attractive to ECRs. There is more about the Religion and Theology research program and current and past research projects here: <https://www.acu.edu.au/research-and-enterprise/our-research-institutes/institute-for-religion-and-critical-inquiry/our-research/religion-and-theology>
